Prohibition and Suffrage Topics May Prove His Political Undoing.

AT ODDS WITH WILSON

President Believes They Should Be Settled by States; Secretary Says They Should Not.

Democratic leaders are fearful that William J. Bryan has raised a political issue that may bring him in sharp an-tagonism with President Wilson and the men who shape party policy in Congress. This issue is embodied in Mr. Bryan's retagonism with President Wilson and the Club before the wanted in the men who shape party policy in Congress.

This issue is embodied in Mr. Bryan's recent statement that the "Democrats of the society will be held Thursday evening."

The mation" must rally to the support of the movement having for its purpose the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Bryan has likewise declared that work than ever before, according to Democrate must adopt woman suffage.

Democrats must adopt woman suffrage as a party tenet. The Secretary of State de it plain that prohibition and qual suffrage are twin reforms, one deequal surrage are twin retorns, one de-pendent upon the other, and that they must be effected by amendment to the Federal Constitution. It is, here that Mr. Bryan finds himself at odds with President Wilson and the party leaders

Prohibition State Issue.

In a speech delivered during the 1912 ign Mr. Wilson made it plain that ne regarded prohibition as a question to be dealt with by the States. A letter written by the President, given out yeserday, shows that the President adheres to an opinion expressed some weeks ago that equal suffrage also is a reform to be treated by the States,

At the last session of Congress the Democratic leaders side-tracked two resolutions proposing amendments to the Federal Constitution looking to equal suffrage and prohibition of the liquor

Practically all the party leaders, nota-bly those from the South, are of the opinion that these two questions should not be obtruded into the domain of Federal legislation. They insist that they shall be considered and decided by the

The Congress leaders are entirely in

The Congress leaders are entirely in harmony with President Wilson on these subjects and there is sharp criticism of Secretary Bryan because of the prominence that he gave equal suffrage and prohibition as "national issues" in this month's issue of The Commoner.

Democratic leaders hostile to Mr Bryan appear to be up a stump as to the rea-sons that impelled the Secretary of State to indorse woman suffrage and prohibition at a time when they are trying to push them into the background. They are of the opinion that Mr. Bryan's proclamation on this subject is bound to mbarrass both the administration and the party representation in Congress.
